

OGDEN MAN ON FEDERAL ASSAY

J. U. Eldredge, Jr. Named
By Harding Member of Mint Commission

(Special Dispatch)
WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 28.—President Harding has appointed J. U. Eldredge, Jr., of Ogden, as a member of the annual assay commission, which meets at the United States mint, Philadelphia, on February 3. Sessions of the commission will last about three days. The appointment was made on recommendation of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon.

News of the appointment of J. U. Eldredge, Jr., general manager of the Standard-Examiner, as a member of the annual assay commission of the federal government was received in Ogden yesterday afternoon. The commission is appointed annually under federal statute passed in 1873, the president making the appointments. The commission is composed of the judge of the district court of the eastern district of Pennsylvania, the controller of the currency, the assayer of the New York assay office and others named by the president.

These appointees meet at the Philadelphia mint to examine and test, in the presence of the director of the mint, the fineness and weight of the coins reserved by the several mints for this purpose. If the test shows that these coins measure to the federal statute limitations, the trial is considered satisfactory and so reported. If, however, there is a greater deviation than permitted by law, this fact is certified to the president.

Mr. Eldredge was the first Utah man to be selected an official of the United States mint, having been appointed at the time that the federal assay office was established at Salt Lake. He was named as the mint official in charge of the assay office by former President Roosevelt and later reappointed to the same position by former President Taft. He resigned the position in 1912 at the time he organized the Ogden Examiner and took up the management of that newspaper.

J. Holther.

The father told of finding the articles taken from the medicine chest about the house and of the boys confessing to the theft. He explained to the court that he had forced the boys to carry the things taken back to the principal of the school, Miss Inez Craven, who later on had reported the theft to the juvenile court.

He was to have been the principal speaker yesterday at the institute, addressing the teachers in the forenoon on the subject of "Vitalized Education," and the students during the afternoon on the subject of "Do It Now."

TRANSFER DEEDS FOR WEDELL BLOCK

The deeds for the transfer to the Paine & Hurst company of the Wedell-Kiesel block, 2448 Washington avenue, were filed with the county recorder yesterday afternoon.

The property was sold for $100,000. One deed from Julia and F. W. Kiesel and wife and Mrs. W. H. Shearman representing a one-half interest in the property bore a face valuation of $50,000. The other deed from the W. D. Wedell Realty company representing the other half-interest bore a valuation of $50,000.

The Paine & Hurst company signed a mortgage on the property for $80,000 which, it is understood, is the remainder to be paid of the $20,000 paid last year when the deal for the transfer of the property was closed.

'BLUE RIBBON' WEEK IS FIXED

Livestock Industry to Be Given Backing Through Campaign

"Blue Ribbon Week" has been proclaimed, semi-officially by Mayor Frank Francis, the date being January 30 to February 3, inclusive. The move has been given the endorsement of the Ogden chamber of commerce. President Fred G. Taylor commending the plan which is one designed to bring Ogden's attention to a means of supporting the Ogden livestock industry.

One hundred and twenty fine heaves, the prize winners of the Ogden livestock show and the Denver livestock show, together with other prize-winning stock, was purchased by the Ogden Packing & Provision company. Manager James Brennan has arranged for the sale of this beef through practically all of the Ogden retail markets and a number of the leading Salt Lake markets.

TO FEATURE MEATS.
At clubs, restaurants and other eating places "Blue Ribbon" beef and lamb will be featured for the entire week.

Secretary Jesse S. Richards of the Ogden livestock show said yesterday, in making announcement of the plan: "This shows what co-operation can and will do. First the producers arrange to have their finest cattle, sheep and hogs here. It comes to a livestock center. The fine prize-winning stock is purchased at an advanced price because it is good, not for any other reason. The producers get better money for it. Then the packing company handles this first-class stock. It is able to produce the finest of products for re-sale to the markets. And the markets have a higher grade of meats to handle. The consumers get the ultimate benefit; they have first-class meat for their table, the kind they like and ought to have. By this means, the livestock industry is being benefited, the producers find reason for making improvements—and Ogden is backing up its livestock show, its packing plant, its stockyards and the livestock raisers."

MAYOR'S STATEMENT

Mayor Francis, when discussing his semi-official proclamation, said: "We can do no better than to build up Ogden's industries through buying Ogden foodstuffs—and when they are of such high class as the 'Blue Ribbon' beef and lamb, we certainly ought to be glad to buy them. As a means of attracting attention to the tremendous value of this industry, the livestock business, to Ogden, I am glad to commend the plan."

President Taylor gave his hearty approval of the proposal, yesterday and thanked Mayor Francis for the semi-official proclamation. He expressed appreciation of the fact that not only had the Ogden dealers but also Salt Lake firms as well joined in the movement to place these products on the market.

They fear that Raisuli's offer was made to gain time for his escape.

RELIEF IN SIGHT FOR STAR ROUTES

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—Relief is to be given star routes mail contractors in the Rocky Mountain and Pacific coast states that have sustained losses on their contracts during the past four years if a bill discussed yesterday before the house postoffice committee is favorably acted upon.

This bill, introduced by Representative Addison T. Smith of Idaho, authorizes the postmaster general to investigate mail contracts in all the far western states made subsequent to July 1, 1918, and ascertain whether contractors, by reason of increases in the cost of supplies and labor, subsequent to the signing of their contracts, have been compelled to perform mail service at a loss.

Where a loss is shown due to the cause stated, the postmaster general is authorized to determine the amount necessary to protect them. Similar legislation applying to carriers in the east, south and middle west has already passed congress, and the early enactment of the Smith bill is indicated.

Congressmen from most of the western states, as well as representatives of the department, appeared to advocate the bill.

KEEN VISION BRINGS SUCCESS

NATURE'S intention for us was that we should live always out in the open among the green fields where our eyes could restfully gaze on the soft, cooling freshness of vegetation, where the light is soft and diffused.

INSTEAD we are crowded into large cities where our eyes are sure to suffer from the bright glare of lights reflected from tall buildings and the restriction of our range of vision.

MODERN education and modern business methods compel men, women and children to concentrate their vision for many hours a day, thus on their books, writing, sewing and fine machinery, thus overworking and cramping the delicate muscles of the eyes and gradually weakening the vision.

ONLY those with perfect sight can do perfect work. No work is better done than it is seen—if seen indistinctly, with less than perfect vision. Defectiveness of hand can only come about through keen vision. Quick and accurate thinking can only be accomplished when the eyes help, not obstruct, the brain.

THE eyes have a certain amount of reserve power and are being obliged to exert this power continually in order to overcome the defects. The inevitable result of this straining is pain, which begins usually in the eyes and then develops into a most severe form of headache. The only cure for these headaches is glasses which will remove the strain on the eyes.

POOR vision will tend to lessen your skill at games, will make you unappreciative of the happiness and beauty around you. Good vision means good work, good health and enjoyment of recreation. Good vision is yours if you take care of your eyesight.
